

Drag Queens Save The World?

by Sandy Simpson, 7/9/24

The irony of their claims is not lost on me. The latest program on drag queens is called “RuPaul's Drag Race All Stars”. Their teaser theme song says, “Drag Queens Save The World.” The fact is that the featured transexuals/cross dressers are frightening. (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RZAznzByFPA>)

I would not recommend someone who is afraid of clowns to watch this stuff, in fact no one should watch these shows. This perversion is being marketed to adults and children alike.

The irony part is that rather than “saving the world” they are part of the ultimate condemnation of this world. Their judgment is coming as it did at Sodom and Gomorrah or in the Ancient World before the flood.

I was reminded of the Alanis Morissette song “Isn't it ironic?” At the time that song came out we had a good laugh over the fact that most of what she used as examples of “irony” in her song were not ironic at all.

The perceived problem with the song is that most, if not all, of the given examples do not constitute either situational or literary irony. For example:

*“A traffic jam when you're already late
A no-smoking sign on your cigarette break*

It's like ten thousand spoons when all you need is a knife

*It's meeting the man of my dreams
And then meeting his beautiful wife
And isn't it ironic ... don't you think?"*

So isn't the theme music for this Drag Queens perversion actually ironic? In reality, it is one of the many signs of the coming wrath of God. I think that they think that they are saving the world from people who stand for virtue and morality. Instead they are yet another blatant example of the sinful nature of human beings who, like their leader the enemy, believe the exercise of their will is more important than anything.

Is. 14:12-15 How you have fallen from heaven, You star of the morning, son of the dawn! You have been cut down to the earth, you who defeated the nations! But you said in your heart, 'I will ascend to heaven; I will raise my throne above the stars of God, and I will sit on the mount of assembly in the recesses of the north. I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will make myself like the Most High.' Nevertheless you will be brought down to Sheol, to the recesses of the pit.

But what is the meaning of life? In reality it is to please God, not ourselves. Yet our culture teaches us to be hedonistic narcissists, only listening to our own desires. God is our Creator, and if we have repented of our sins and believed that Jesus Christ is the only way to salvation and is God come in the flesh, then we realize the highest calling we have is to serve God and raise our children with love and truth, not to grow up to be self-deluded clowns. I pray for these people. I feel sorry for them, but not for what they are doing to our nation and world.

Our nation, formerly established on Judeo-Christian values, is now the exporter of the most filth of any country via Hollywood, TV and the Internet. Whereas we helped spearhead the greatest missionary movement in history from the mid 1800s to the mid 1900s, we are now no longer the US of A but the US of B (Babylon).
